

EVANSVILLE MARSH IS BEING DRAINED

Work Has Begun, Aimed at the Drainage of Large Tract of Valuable Farm Land in Three Townships.

One of the largest drainage ditches yet undertaken in Rock county has been commenced in what is known as the Evansville marsh district, and when completed will drain several thousand acres of land in the towns of Magnolia, Center and Janesville. The head of the ditch is in section 1, town of Magnolia, and runs east by south to the line of section 6 of the town of Center; thence east by southeast through that town, and then into the town of Janesville, with the mouth emptying into Rock river near Loylen.

Allan and Armstrong, the contractors, have a force of eleven men at work and are busy completing their final arrangements for actual dredging labor. The dredge boat to be used is sixteen feet wide at the bottom and twenty-six at the top and is eighty feet long. Here the machinery finds plenty of room and the long scoops will dump the dirt and bog several feet from the boat, forming a wall some five feet high when the ground has settled.

The ditch is to be five feet deep at the head and gradually deepen until it meets the requirements to give a sufficient drop to keep the water running nicely where it empties into the Rock river. Its width will be some what over twenty-six feet along the entire course, in reality making a very stable stream which will be fed by the numerous springs that abound throughout the entire district.

The draining of this immense tract of land will have much influence on other adjacent sections which are usually partially under water during spring freshets and also in wet seasons. The Evansville marsh district was probably once a lake district or a portion of the course of the Rock river, but the breaking away of the banks in different portions left it a quagmire which has been useless to its owners ever for many years.

Geologists, who have surveyed the tract state that it is one of the many formations left by the sliding of the glaciers in prehistoric days. The top surface of the earth is rich black mud, the accumulations of decay, and very fertile. When drained it will bring under cultivation several thousand acres of the richest farm lands in the county.

The contractors have also built a floating boarding-house boat, which will follow the dredge down the ditch as it is dug for the accommodation of the laborers and they expect to be through by autumn before the fall freeze-up.

LAST NIGHT'S GAMES AT THE ASSOCIATION

Cuba Defeated Yarnigans And Wilcox Men Lost to Naps.—Tonight's Championship Contests.

None of the teams with which they have contested, seem to be able to stop the Intermediate basketball teams in their onward rush toward the goal which they seek, the championship of the Y. M. C. A. and it looks as if the final fight for first honors will be among players from this class. Both seniors and business men have gone down to defeat before their skillful playing. Last evening two games in the association were won by intermediates when the Cuba met the Yarnigans, and the Naps blasted the hopes of the Wilcox players. The first game started out with the Cuba playing the better game, but in the second half the Yarnigans took a brace and at the end had their opponents hard pressed. The final score was 3 to 5. Wilcox's men also proved scrappy players but they were outclassed by the Naps, who defeated them 15 to 11.

Tonight the Tigers will attempt to chew up Lavoy's quintet from the Badness Men's league and the Pirates will attempt to steal victory from the Glants.

COLD RAINS DELAYED PLANTING SEED BEDS

Weather Has Been Against Starting This Year's Crops—General Tobacco Cessing.

According to the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter so far the weather conditions have been quite unfavorable for the laying of the seed beds for the new crop of tobacco. The temperature has ruled so cool, and heavy frosts frequent that there has been a good deal of danger in consigning sprouted seed to the ground however well the beds were protected by coverings. Some growers have been compelled to throw away the seed that germinated and start again before they deemed it safe to sow the beds. The intensity of the season, however, need not prove such a discouraging feature for under favorable conditions sprouted seed comes forward very rapidly. There is sufficient moisture now in the ground and all that is needed is a reasonable amount of warm weather to bring the young plants forward in time for usual transplanting dates. Even at this writing there are a good many seed beds yet to be laid in the tobacco growing sections of this state. The history of other years would indicate that it is not yet too late to sow them, either.

The buying season is now very nearly brought to a close. The quiet absorption going on the past month has reduced the remnants to a very small fraction, and only scattering lots remain in growers' hands. Neither do late prices vary from those quoted frequently heretofore. Considerable receiving of the late buying has been going on and when this is finished it looks as if the movement of the 1908 crop would be practically at an end. Cutton & Well have opened two or three warehouses lately for the handling of considerable leaf purchased recently. The Edgerton branch of the American Clear company and the Eisenlohr warehouses have closed during the week.

The market for old leaf has developed no new features. Transactions are still confined to small lots to meet the pressing necessities of manufacturers, though eastern journals report there is a feeling of expectancy of a more liberal movement as the summer advances.

A week of cold rains has delayed the laying of seed beds and all farm work as well, neither are the weather conditions propitious for seed already planted.

The shipments out of storage reach 401 cases and 6 carloads of burling to all points from this market, and 22 carloads have been received from outside points for warehouse handling since last report.

WOULD PROTECT THE CITY'S SHADE TREES

Warning Sent Out by the Horticulturists How to Prevent Destruction by Moths.

To preserve the beautiful shade trees of the cities and the country a call has been sent out by horticulturists advising owners of trees to take precautionary measures against moth in the spring, at a time when the minute larvae of the insects are undeveloped and can be killed. Attention is also called to the rapid propagation of insects which kill trees, and also the fact that eggs allowed to hatch in the spring will generate millions and millions of insects by the summer months, when a new batch of eggs will have been hatched and deposited on the trees.

The Tussock moth is the insect most injurious to shade trees in this vicinity, and unless the trees are protected it is likely to become a serious menace. Last year many trees were banded with a sticky composition to keep the caterpillars of this moth from ascending. The work, however, was done too late to get the best results.

The trees should be banded during the first warm days in April and before any caterpillars are to be seen. The minute caterpillars when they first hatch from the egg masses are so small as to be unnoticeable. When they have grown in June or July to be an inch or an inch and a half in length, those that hatched early in the spring already have ascended the trees and it is like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen to band the trees in July.

Young or smooth barked trees should not be scraped; rough barked trees should be scraped, to form a comparatively smooth ring around the tree not less than four inches wide. Care should be taken in smoothing the trees never to cut into green or live tissue. Before or just after banding, if any egg masses are to be seen on the trunk or the larger branches they should be burned. The egg mass is usually of oval form, one-half to one inch in width and one inch to two inches in length. It is of a light cream color when first attached to the tree by the female moth in the summer or early fall, but changes by exposure to a greenish color. The egg mass is usually found on the trunk or the large limbs close to the trunk.

JAMES T. MULLIGAN IS AGAIN INJURED

Switchman Narrowly Escapes Death When Engine is Derailed at New Yards.

Death stared Switchman James Mulligan in the face this morning, when at 8 o'clock switch-engine 124 struck a wash-out in the South Janesville yards and left the track, completely destroying the front footboard, and carrying Mulligan, who with Will Dullin, was standing on the front of the engine, under the wheels and crushing him against the rails.

The switch-engine, in charge of Yard Master Griffin and Engineer Talmadge, was just entering the lead to the elinder pit when it struck the wash-out, swayed drunkenly and left the rails, sinking deeply in the soft sand, and carrying the footboard together with the switchman under the front trucks.

Will Dullin, who was standing on the right-hand side, was thrown forward and escaped with a few slight scratches. Mulligan was conscious when the engine stopped and managed, by grasping the pilot beam, to pull himself from under the engine. Had he been caught in any way it is improbable that he would have escaped with his life as the engine sank at least twelve inches in the soft sand within a few moments.

The injured man was carried to the bunk car, an engine secured from the Pond du Lac extra which was standing near and he was taken to his home where Dr. G. W. Fifield attended him for his injuries. He was conscious when he reached home, but later lost consciousness and remained in that state for over an hour.

It is feared that he was injured internally by being struck in the back by the pilot beam and crushed against the rails. Aside from internal injuries the skin on his legs from the knees down was completely scraped off and he was badly bruised about the head and body.

Dr. Fifield stated this afternoon that although the injuries were serious it was thought that Mulligan would recover.

The fact that the engine was not overturned when it left the tracks probably saved the train crew from injury. As it was, Fireman Whitman Smith sustained a badly bruised arm from being thrown against the boiler and Yard Master Griffin was bruised about the hips by being dashed against the sides of the tender.

The truck, at the point where the accident occurred, appeared to be in good condition, and the train crew thought everything was all right as the engine from train 528 had just passed over it.

The engineer on the latter engine, however, had noticed that the truck was unsafe, and had reported the fact to the roundhouse, but not soon enough to allow repairs to be made before the switch-engine ran into the lead place.

The accident is particularly unfortunate in that Mulligan had just returned to work on Monday after being laid up for nearly six months on account of an injury to his foot.

Chicago and North-Western The heavy wind which has prevailed during the past few days has blown off the roof to the coal shed and sand-house, causing considerable trouble.

Engineer Cole and Fireman Hackshaw went south on 582 this morning on account of there being no pool crews on hand.

Engineer Crowley and Fireman Lewis were on the switch-engine last night.

Fireman Fleming is on the extra board.

Engineer Schoenberg is laying off sick.

Engine 45, which has been stored in the house, was ordered to Chicago last night for passenger service between Chicago and Lake Geneva.

Switchman Fraunfelder took James Mulligan's place this morning after the latter's accident.

Engineer Munroe is taking Fireman's place on the Deloit-Janesville run.

The ground at the new yards is extremely soft on account of the heavy rains of the past few days, and fast driving on the part of engineers is attended by great danger. The new embankment just north of the double bridge has slipped over two and a half feet during the past couple of days and it was necessary to have two watchmen there all last night. The heavy winds blew down the gates at the Jackson Street crossing yesterday when the gateman attempted to raise them.

Engine 1170 was sent out in place of 124, which went off the tracks this morning. The accident this morning is the third of its kind which has occurred during the past half week.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Engineer Fatter has returned to work after serving on the jury at the present term of the circuit court. He took the way-freight, No. 91, west this morning with Fireman McAlliff.

Engineer Bates is laying off to take a trip over the coast extension.

Switchman Meadows is relieving Fireman, who is laying off.

Train 162 was abandoned this morning.

Engine 1395 is in the house for repairs to the front trucks.

Engineer Moore and Fireman McCarthy took 194 east this morning.

Use for Scotch Water Power. The growing industry of extracting aluminum has stimulated the search for water-power in the British Isles, because the extraction of aluminum is so expensive that only low-cost power can be economically employed. In this respect Scotland, with its mountains, is coming to the front. The water power at the falls of Foyers, in Scotland, has hitherto been the largest in Great Britain; but now a still larger plant, at Kinlochleven, utilizing the rainfall over a tract of 55 square miles, is about to be put into operation for the production of aluminum. Its nine hydraulic turbines, each of 3,200 brake horsepower, are the largest water wheels in the British Isles.

A NEW ERA IN ART

If the new tariff bill is passed as it now stands, paintings, sculptures, etchings, engravings, pastels, original drawings and sketches, and other works of art over twenty years of age will be admitted free. Artistic antiquities more than one hundred years old will also come in free. It is still possible that, during a later stage of the tariff bill, before it is finally enacted, the twenty-year clause will be eliminated, which would be a complete victory for free art. The duty on modern art is reduced from 20 per cent to 15 per cent to conform to the present reciprocity treaties. The schedule also so worded that mechanical reproductions will be excluded. Congress seems to be taking a very enlightened and progressive view of the art tariff and for this deserves the most hearty commendation of the people.

It is no exaggeration to say that the passage of this bill will inaugurate a new era in American art. Valuable collections of old masterpieces, which the people of Europe have been enjoying for some decades, will now be brought to this country by their American owners for the benefit of our own people. The art museums of the country will receive a wonderful impetus. Interest in art will be awakened, and there will be a much greater demand for the work of our own artists. Artists, school teachers, and the thousands of other Americans who each year travel abroad will be allowed to bring home beautiful things without hindrance. The taste of the people will be improved, our designers will find it easier to acquire an art education, and our manufactured products, in which design plays an important part, will be better able to compete with those of Europe.

LACK OF AUTHORITY

The two unpleasantness between the two heads of the police department appear on the surface to have been amicably settled. Chief Appleby is the recognized head of the department and the man who attempted to divide honors with him has promised loyalty.

There is one element of weakness about this police system which should be remedied, and that is the lack of authority on the part of the chief. While it is true that he recommends men for the force, and the fire and police commission approve or reject, it will, it is also true that the only way a man can be removed from the force is by preferring charges.

It matters not how incompetent a man may be, or how much he may annoy the department through disloyalty or various other causes, some specific charge must be filed against him. The chief is held accountable for the efficiency of his men, and yet they are civil service protected, and in position to make it uncomfortable for him. He should have the authority to employ and discharge at will, the same as a section boss on a railroad or the head of any department in business.

Civil service for state and city employees is as much of a farce as the primary law. It was established for political purposes and has accomplished its mission.

The chief of police is a better judge of qualifications for the police force than any commission can be, and he is the only man competent to say when a man should be dropped out. If the mayor and council expect to see the laws enforced they will find that much depends upon the police force. It is to be hoped that the farce connected with the work of the department because of strife and disloyalty is at an end, and that the authority of the chief will not only be recognized, but that every member of the force will be a faithful guardian.

The women of Wisconsin will be obliged to jog along without the right of suffrage for another two years at least, as the assembly killed the bill recently passed by the senate. There will be disappointment and mourning in some quarters but the women of the state generally will be satisfied. Under the primary law the men don't know who to vote for, half the time, and the women would be no better informed.

The new sultan of Turkey may be a weakling but he can't be more of a knave than his deposed brother, whose life was devoted to intrigue. The loss of territory as well as the extravagant waste of money has left the nation in bankrupt condition.

Winter is finding it hard to let go, and the early robin shivers in the cold and wonders when spring will come. The farmer is troubled with the same complaint and is satisfied that the face of nature has been sufficiently washed.

Abdul Hamid, the dethroned sultan of Turkey, will spend the rest of his life in ease and luxury with four wives to make him happy. The old palace at Salonika has been appropriated for his prison, where he is already installed with his harem.

The free hild delegation, now in Washington, will take their grievance direct to the president. The duty on hides should be removed and the chances are that it will be.

The anthracite coal miners have entered into a three-year contract, and the threatened strike is a thing of the past.

A QUEER BANQUET.

Police Judge James Austin of Toledo, O., whose motto is "Lift Up the Fallen," gave a banquet.

It was a Scriptural banquet. That is to say, the judge went out into the byways and hedges, so to speak, and invited the lame, the halt and the blind to his spread.

"The Golden Rule," Judge was a great friend of the late "Golden Rule" Jones, mayor of Toledo, and tried to run his court as Jones ran the city government—upon the divine rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so to them."

So the merciful judge puts himself in the prisoner's place.

Well, it was a queer banquet. Men, the women, black and white, all victims of misfortune, were the guests.

"Go, call, we're going to be mugged," remarked "Tiger" Mulvey when a photographer entered to take a flash picture of the motley crowd of sixty people.

There was much laughter at this banquet, and some tears.

And the toast!

There was Mrs. Fred Becker, the wife of a paroled prisoner, who in a faltering voice told how her desolate home had been made happy by the judge who had reformed her husband. Life now held a promise, and she was, oh, so happy!

Then Mrs. Becker had a good cry.

A girl of fifteen timidly arose. She had been set adrift on the streets at nine years of age. For three days and nights she went hungry and slept in a vacant house. Then a woman told her if she would go to a house where a red light burned over the door she would be taken in.

The girl probationer could scarcely tell the rest of her tale for sobbing.

She said the woman who opened the door gave her the first smile she had seen in weeks. In that house a man taught her to steal. Judge Austin was good to her, suspended her sentence and got her a job. That was over a year ago. Now she was a good girl and would be always.

Grizzled old men told how they were leading a new life, helped by the good judge. Young men stood up and talked about how the judge had helped them to "cut out the booze" and get good jobs.

Surely if there is joy among the angels over one sinner that repenteth there was a jubilee in heaven over that feast in Tony Miller's chophouse, over by the police station.

And the good judge?

He was happier than an archangel because it is not given to archangels to save the souls of sinful men.

Denistry That Lasts

Eight years ago I put on a gold crown for a Janesville patient, over what would ordinarily seem to have been an almost hopelessly broken down tooth.

The patient insisted on my trying to save it, so I undertook the case.

The other day I had opportunity to examine the tooth and found it to be in splendid condition, apparently good for years to come.

Who wouldn't give $5.00 for a gold crown knowing that it would preserve the tooth for so many, many years of service?

My crowns at $5.00 are exactly the same in quality and thickness of gold as you have been paying $10.00 for elsewhere.

All work thoroughly warranted.

Uniform Sparking Plug.

Standardization of sparking plugs for automobiles has been attempted by the American Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers. The mechanical branch of this association for some time has been working on proposed standards for the dimensions. The form now agreed upon has a seven-eighths-inch diameter of thread, 18 pitch, a shouldered or flanged seat, one and one-eighth inch in diameter, a minimum length below the shoulder of one-half inch, and a hexagon head seven-eighths inch across the flats.

BEAT VICTIM'S HEAD TO PULP FOR MONEY

Winnebago, Ill., Woman Cruelly Murdered for Small Amount of Cash—Tramps Are Suspected.

Chief of Police Appleby received word this morning from the sheriff of Rockford, notifying him of the murder of an aged woman in the town of Winnebago, Mrs. Margaret Crispin, a woman over seventy years of age, was found in the hallway of her home yesterday morning with her head crushed almost to a jelly. Blood spattered on the walls of the hall, a large ornamental sea shell lying near her and a broken stove shaker which was found under the woman indicated that she had not given her life without a struggle. Fragments of clothing, blood on the sink and other signs show that the murderers fought hard for their booty. A purse lying in the kitchen points to robbery as the motive for the foul deed. A station, covered with blood and hair, lay under a window. After the murder an attempt was made to set the house on fire by turning up a lamp and throwing a woolen scarf over the lamp chimney. The scarf was slightly burned but ultimately smothered the light. The crime was not discovered until yesterday morning and as it is supposed to have been committed Wednesday night the guilty ones had plenty of time to make their getaway.

The suspicions of the authorities rest on two men who were in the village the day of the murder. One of these was a peddler selling a push, and the other a tramp who was begging about the streets. The only description of them that could be given to Chief Appleby this morning was that they were about thirty years of age, one being dark and the other of light complexion. The marks of the conflict, it is thought, would be visible on their clothes.

On the night of the crime thirty-eight vagrants were sheltered at the city lock-up. Last night there were twenty-five, but these were released this morning before the notice came from Rockford.

BLIND PIGITIS AT EVANSVILLE AGAIN

Anthony Richardson, a Colored Barber, Was This Morning Fined $75 and Costs for Retailing Liquor.

District Attorney John L. Maher, who returned this morning from a trip to Minneapolis on county business, expected to go to Evansville on the noon train to prosecute Anthony Richardson, a colored barber, on the charge of conducting a "blind pig" in connection with his consensual parlors. Mr. Richardson, however, decided to enter a plea of guilty and was fined $75 and costs in justice court.

NORTHWEST TRADE VERY MUCH ALARMED

Leather Men in Arms for Free Trade in Hides and Will Make Demands on Congress.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
St. Paul, Minn., April 30.—Alarmed by the apparent indifference of members of the senate to their demands for the elimination of duties on hides, the northwestern trade has combined to make a joint fight and manufacturers of boots, shoes, harness and other leather goods will act as a unit in an effort to persuade the senate to follow the action of the house in adopting a tariff bill in which hides will enter the United States free.

The manufacturers have compiled statistics which show that already more than seventy per cent of the tanneries of the country are under the control of the beef trust. This condition, they state, is growing worse instead of better, and they urge that the passage of a tariff imposing a duty on hides will furnish the big packers with a barrier behind which they can will more completely control the raw material used in the shoe and harness industries. They further assert that accurate market records shows that there is no relation whatever between the price of beef cattle and raw hides, and that a duty will be of no benefit to the American farmer since he sells his fat cattle for beef and at prices equivalent to their value for meat alone and has always done so. One St. Paul manufacturer cites an instance in which a Montana shipper sold a car of fat cattle on the local market recently when prices happened to rule low for the day, at a total which was less than the value of the skins of the animals sold, if valued as hides. Since the packer buys for beef, the farmer, they state, is simply in the position of adding a bonus to the packer in the shape of the hide.

Delegations have already visited Washington in behalf of the Northwestern leather trade, but have brought back no special encouragement. In the purchase of tanned hides from the raw material for their factories, the manufacturers state, the effect of beef trust control is already apparent in a higher level of prices than formerly obtained. They fear that the domination of the leather trade by the packers will be the forerunner of the benevolent assimilation of all classes of leather manufacturing by the beef trust, a condition which might naturally follow the trusts complete control of the hide and tannery situation. Plans are being made for an aggressive fight.

The American Breakfast.

As to the British breakfast, what is that meal—albeit proverbial—compared with the American? The writer has kept, as a document to serve in the curious international occupation of overeating, the menu of an American breakfast. It is the bill of fare at a great Californian hotel, and it contains—well, everything there is. But the home American does likewise: an orange begins the meal, porridge urges it on to breakfast, a chop, large potatoes in their skins, ash, stewed fruit and bread hot from the oven and heavily buttered. The weight, the substance, the variety, the length, the heat of the repast seem to give the slender name of breakfast a new meaning.—London Chronicle.

The court also granted an order for the appointment of a receiver for the property of Mrs. Thaw. The action is the outcome of a judgment for $250, obtained against Mrs. Thaw by a milliner of this city.

NEW PROBE FOR LAND FRAUDS.

Federal Grand Jury May Indict Oklahoma Governor Again.

Tulsa, Okla., Apr. 30.—A new federal grand jury was called yesterday to meet in Tulsa on Monday, May 10, to reinvestigate the Muskogee town lot fraud cases in which the names of Gov. Charles N. Haskell and half a dozen other prominent Oklahomans were recently involved. Judge Ralph Campbell of the United States circuit court here granted the order for the new jury, which will consist of 15 men.

When the indictments against these men were quashed on April 10, last, it was on the ground that they were returned by a grand jury composed of 23 men under the federal law, instead of by a jury of 16, as provided by the Arkansas law, which was held to be in force in old Indian territory by federal enactment at the time the alleged frauds were committed.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., A WITNESS.

Capitalist Says He Never Knew Corn Products Company Existed.

New York, Apr. 30.—For the first time since the Thaw trial, District Attorney Jerome appeared in a courtroom yesterday, when the case against the Star Publishing Company, publishers of the New York American and the Evening Journal, was called in Judge Malone's part of the court of general sessions.

The indictment, which was found on January 6 last, charges the defendant corporation with having libeled John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in certain articles which charged him with being largely responsible for alleged conditions of poonage in Illinois.

He described himself as a capitalist, and said he had not been in Chicago since January, 1906. He denied having had any connection with the Corn Products Company and not even known of the existence of such a concern.

Negress Who Claims To Be 150 Years Old, Mrs. Abigail Parm in her Clinton home.

By Special Correspondent.
Clinton, Ia.—Declaring she is the oldest woman in the world, and claiming to have seen the soldiers of General Washington pass her father's cabin in the woods of northern Alabama, Mrs. Abigail Parm, half Creek Indian and half negress, occupies a little cabin in the colored quarter of the city, and sleeps away her declining days. She is sightless and for years has been confined to her bed, too weak to move about.

"I am 150 years old" declares the aged negress, over and over again to the little group of her colored friends who bring her in the tiny portion which is sufficient for her sustenance. "When I was a little girl, General Washington's soldiers passed by father's cabin in the woods. I was a girl of 16 years." Grandma Parm believes this was some where near the city of Columbia. "We lived for many years in the woods. Then there was an Indian war and the whites came and drove the Indians all away. My father died and I came north with my mother. She died in St. Louis."

Pointing to a rude drawing, yellow with age, above her bed, she said: "That is the picture of my husband. He died longer ago than the life of a very old man."

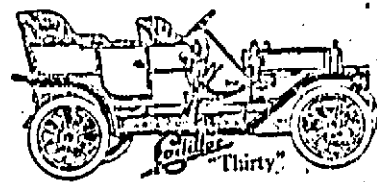

Deceitful, ill and borne down by the weight of her unnatural years the aged Clinton woman lives only in the memory of the faraway days of which she loves to speak and whose broken recollection solace and comfort her in the decline, long deferred, but now so heavy upon her. For the stammered Creek nature which has enabled her to ward off death for generations after man's allotted three score years and ten have fold is gradually succumbing, and the hand of time is manifest in her bent and broken form.

"I am 150 years old." The old woman makes the assertion with a prayer on her lips and the fear of God in her heart. Above her bed hangs a picture of the crucified Christ. She is a member of the Baptist church. Many years ago she ceased to creep from her humble home on Maple avenue to the little church of the colored folks around the corner; but when the church bells ring on Sunday morning and the black people pass her door on their way to their place of worship, she is with them in spirit. Relatives she has none; the old woman's extraordinary span of years earning her far beyond the lives of her sons and daughters, who decades ago went to their graves as aged men and women. Yet she lives on, and her many years stretch away back into the obscurity of the past and like dim shadows from the vista of years that are long dead come the forms and faces of her youth to haunt her bedside.

While substantiation of the extraordinary claim of the aged woman cannot be secured her appearance and her knowledge of ancient events prove beyond a doubt that she has attained to a remarkable age.

The Doctor's Question

Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physicals.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent of all illness is attended with defective bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with noxious gases and waste matter which naturally accumulate and which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salt, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief.

THOMAS AUTO CO'S
NEW WELDING PLANT

Autogeneous Process of Welding

Parts to Be Used in the Thomas

Automobile

In order to successfully carry out their plan of having a rivetless automobile, the Owen Thomas Automobile company has recently installed in their temporary factory in the old North-Western roundhouse, a welding plant, the only one of its kind in the city of Janesville; in fact there being but one more like it in the state of Wisconsin. Were it not for this movable machine, it would be necessary to use a great many rivets in the construction of the car, since there is no wood used in the body, and the rivets are constructed in and with the new portable welder it will be possible to join the metal sheeting of the body together, making it one solid piece, thus doing away with the rivets which usually loosen up and make the car unstable.

The working as well as the construction of the welder, which is more correctly known as the Monarch Oxy-Acetylene welding machine, is extremely interesting and the work done by it is a astonishing. The machine consists of a blow-pipe, which mixes the different gases used, and places a flame similar to that of the ordinary blow-pipe used in chemical analysis, two tanks, one of which contains ordinary coal gas at a pressure of 1800 pounds, another similar tank containing oxygen at the same non pressure, and an acetylene generating plant. This plant, in which the ordinary carbide is used, is situated at some distance from the blow-pipe and the acetylene furnished through connecting gas pipes. The three gases are mixed in the blow-pipe,
which is known as the Faneau blow-pipe, and the gases regulated by means of two stop-cocks, until the right sort of flame is obtained. In regulating the flame, smoked glasses are used as the light is extremely dazzling. The flame that does the work is only about the size of the head of a match, although the entire flame is nearly six inches long. The heat generated is enormous, and if not as great as that obtained in an electric arc, has those advantages over the other flame in that the heat can be localized, is not so expensive and can be carried about. The blow-pipe is attached to a flexible hose and can easily be moved while the generator is working about an automobile, welding together the different parts. The process of welding is called the "autogeneous process."

Some of the tests performed by the welder are truly astonishing. For example, with a small enough flame,
the head on a coin can be melted out cleanly and completely. Asbestos paper burns or melts under the intense heat an ordinary paper does in the flame of a match. From a sheet of steel plate, five-eighths of an inch thick, a square can be cut out just as easily as a hot-iron will burn out a square of paper. Ordinary brick will melt almost instantly, and a small piece of glass placed on the brick will be welded to it so tightly that it is impossible to separate them.
Broken cast iron castings can be welded together in such a manner that the weld will be as strong as any other portion. Lead and platinum can be fused into a solid mass, and a lump of cast iron, heated on a sheet of steel can be welded to the steel so that it seems to be merely a lump of steel. When the flame is directed upon a cast iron rod about the thickness of a lead pencil, the iron melts as rapidly as a candle in the flame of a gas jet. The melting is so rapid that the iron can be held until the flame is within a few inches of the fingers.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott.

May 2nd, 1939.

Paul's First Missionary Journey—

Cyprus, Acts 13:1-12.

Golden Text.—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. Mark 16:15.

Verso 1.—Where was Antioch?

What constituted a Christian church, then, and now?

What was the difference between prophets and teachers?

Verso 2.—What is meant by "ministered to the Lord?"

What, mental, physical or spiritual benefits, are there derived from fasting?

How long should a person abstain

from food, in order to constitute a Christian fast?

What right has the present day

Protestant church to discontinue the practice of fasting?

When would the ears of a company of godly men, be most sensitive to the voice of God, during a feast, or a fast?

Was there any connection between their ministering and fasting, and the Holy Spirit speaking to them?

Should we all be "called" of God,

before undertaking any kind of work?

Verso 3.—Ought the church today to send out missionaries to new districts, and to heathen countries?

If it is the duty of the church to send out missionaries, is it, or not, the duty of every person, whether a member of the church or not, to help support them? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the class.)

Why did they fast and pray, before sending Paul and Barnabas on their mission?

Would it be a help to each local church today, to fast and pray before each missionary meeting?

Do you think the women took part in this service, and whether or not,

what reason is there to deter women

from any of the church's work?

Verso 4.—Is it possible or practical,

to be guided in every journey we take, and in all else by the Holy Spirit?

Should a pastor ever take charge of a new church, without being directed to do so, by the Holy Spirit?

Please point out on the map, in your Bible, where Seleucia, Salamis

and Cyprus are situated.

Were they conspicuously, or uncon-spicuously, directed by God, the Holy Spirit, all along their journey?

Verso 5.—Should men and women, in the ordinary walks of life, be as faithful in preaching the gospel, as testifying for Jesus, wherever they may be, as Paul and Barnabas were?

Verso 6.—How many places mentioned in this lesson, are situated on the island of Cyprus? (See your map).

What motives had likely induced this man Barnabas, to claim to be a prophet?

Verses 7-8.—How do you account for a man being so bad, as to try to prevent another man from serving the true God?

Verses 9-12.—Are good men justified

in rebuking bad men with vehemence,

when they would stop a work of love and mercy?

Is it possible for a bad man to escape the just penalty of his sins?

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

ALMOST all happy marriages nowadays are nothing more or less than successful compromises.

According to the old tradition there was no need of compromise.

The wife was to love, honor and "obey."

But times have changed. Some women demand the omission of the word

"obey" from the marriage ceremony. Almost all women demand a better basis for marriage happiness than a slavish willingness to give up all their tastes, habits, ideas and morals in favor of their husbands.

Intelligent and loving compromise is the new basis.

If every bride and groom would repeat as part of the ceremony, "We do enter into this compact in a spirit of compromise. We do solemnly promise that neither one of us shall insist upon having his own way all the time," a much larger proportion of marriages would last "till death do us part."

One husband and wife promised each other the day of the wedding, that each would give up his own way more than half the time. They have been married ten years and have never quarreled. "How could we with that compact?" they ask naively.

In another family, where there is unusual happiness and harmony, it is a fact agreement that all difficulties shall be settled by compromise. One of the most amusing of these compromises is on the subject of the husband's mustache. He dislikes a mustache, but his wife thinks he looks better with one. So all his married life he has worn a mustache the first six months of the year and gone clean-shaven the rest of the time.

A disconsolate bride came to me with her first quarrel the other day.

"It isn't that I want to go to the party so terribly much," she wailed, making pathetic dashes at her pretty blue eyes with her troussau-y little scrap of a handkerchief. "It's because it seems to me that if Harry loved me as much as he used to, he wouldn't refuse to go when he knows I want to."

I couldn't help smiling.

"My dear," I said, "did you ever think that maybe Harry feels badly because he thinks you wouldn't insist on going if you loved him as much as you used to?"

The disconsolate bride looked at me from behind the troussau-y scrap of a handkerchief. "Oh," she said thoughtfully, "Oh."

The monument—you see—is always made of both copper and brass, and compromise is the art of seeing both sides of it at once.

FISHERMEN DO WELL

TO HEED THE LAWS

Resume of the State Laws Relative to Fishing in Rock River and

Other Waters.

With the advent of spring and the outstanding fishermen begin to long for the sport with the dory for the lake. There was some hope that the special provision would be made this season of the legislature that Rock river might be an open fishing ground

the year around, but in vain, and the old laws are still in force. A brief resume of the fish laws as they apply to Rock river and other waters is as follows:

29. Classification of Fish, Section

4560a-1 (ch. 193, 1907). For the purpose of constraining and enforcing the laws of this state, relating to the protection, taking and having in possession of fish, the following named

fish are hereafter to be known and classified as "game fish": Any variety of brook trout, small mouth black bass, large mouth black bass, Oswego bass, green bass, yellow bass, silver bass, white bass, rock bass, pike, catfish, muskellunge, sturgeon and pickerel. All fish not classed as "game

fish" are hereafter to be known and classified as "rough fish."

COMMISSIONER TO LIBERIA, EMMET J. SCOTT.

New York.—Emmet J. Scott, private secretary to Robert T. Washington, the negro member of the commission which will go to Liberia to investigate the social and political conditions in the black republic, is a man well known to the colored race. In his capacity as private secretary to the great negro leader he has proven his ability and his opinion on the commission will be of far reaching value. The commission sails this week and the problem they have to confront in the African republic is a most unusual one. Considerable feeling has been aroused on the scout cruiser Birmingham, on which Scott sails, as many of the officers are southern men and a strong feeling exists against the colored man.

A POWERFUL FACTOR IN NAVAL WARFARE.

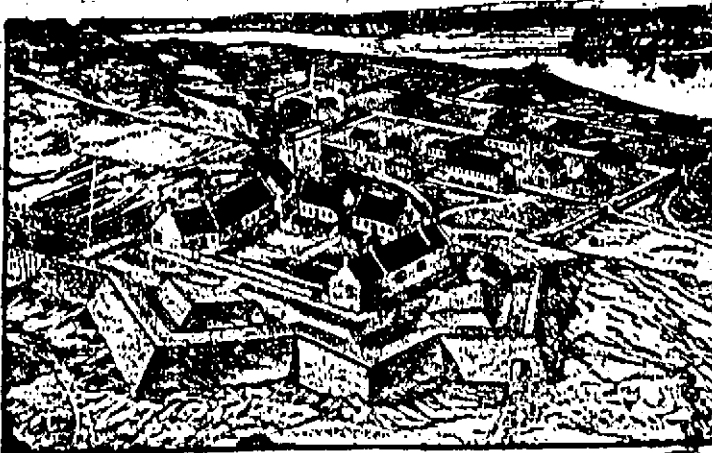

This little death-dealing motor boat, together with 31 others of the same type, are attached to the coast artillery corps and used for laying submarine mines. It is a powerful factor in naval warfare. The little boat steals out of the harbor so quietly and unostentatiously that its death-dealing power is scarcely appreciated. Crafts similar this have been shipped to the Philippines.

MRS. ZELDA SELBY

UNKNOWN DAUGHTER OF THE LATE "LUCKY" BALDWIN LAYS CLAIM TO HIS FORTUNE.

San Francisco, Cal.—When Mrs. Zelda Selby of Oakland, Cal., presented her claim to the Baldwin millions the other day a bitter contest was in prospect. Mrs. Selby is the wife of a prosperous candy manufacturer and it was not until after E. J. Baldwin's death that it became generally known that Mrs. Selby was his child. The Baldwin heirs have won agreed to her demands and the will will be probated at Los Angeles this week. Under the terms of the Baldwin testament Mrs. Selby was to receive property in Los Angeles county valued at about $100,000. As it is, it is thought she will receive approximately $7,000,000 as her third of the Baldwin estate, the other heirs being two half-sisters. Mrs. Selby's rights to an equal share of the Baldwin estate are conclusive beyond doubt. She has in her possession all the documentary evidence to prove that her mother, a woman of refinement and culture, the daughter of a prominent family, was the legal wife of Baldwin at the time of his daughter's birth. Mr. Baldwin always treated Mrs. Selby with the greatest affection. He had her reared with the greatest care and she was educated at his expense in the best boarding schools in the state.

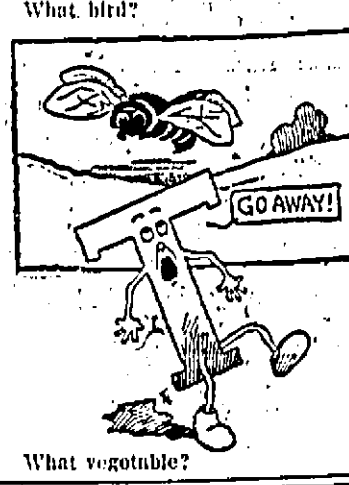

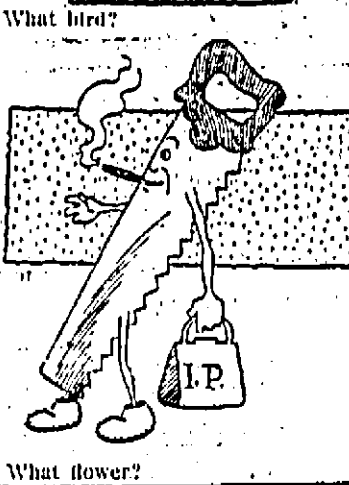

OLD FORT TICONDEROGA TO BE RESTORED.

Ticonderoga, N. Y.—Active work is being carried on to restore old Fort Ticonderoga to its original appearance. The work is being carried on under the direction of Mrs. Stephen H. Ball, of New York City, and her father, Col. Robert M. Thompson, is furnishing the funds. It is estimated it will require $500,000 to reconstruct the fort. It is hoped that the west barracks in which the surrender on May 10, 1775, to Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain boys took place, will be completed in time for the tricentennial at Lake Champlain, which opens July 4.

No effort has been spared in seeking out original drawing and data covering the building and it is thought it will take 10 years to completely reconstruct the fort.

Fort Ticonderoga abounds in historic incidents. It was built by the French and named Fort Carillon (Chino of Hills) in allusion to the musical sound of the waterfalls near by. Several years later the present name was adopted. In 1757 Montcalm assembled there a force of 9,000 men, with which he took Fort William Henry, on Lake George. On July 8, 1758, General Abercrombie with 16,000 men stormed Fort Carillon, but was repulsed. In 1759 General Amherst, with a force of 12,000 men, invested it, and the French, being too weak to withstand an attack, dismantled and abandoned both the fort and Crown Point, which were then captured and strengthened by the English. Being weakly garrisoned after the cession of Canada to Great Britain, Ticonderoga was captured by the British in 1775 by Ethan Allen. After the war the fort gradually fell into ruins.

Canadian Farmers Own Homes. About 87 per cent. of the farmers of Canada reside on their own farms.
